OVC Will Apparently Lose Automatic Berth

The Ohio Valley Conference's automatic berth in the NCAA post-season basketball tournament may be a thing of the past, under a plan to cut the number of automatic bids in the 32-team field from 21 to 16 next season.

Bob Vanatta, OVC commissioner, said this morning in a telephone interview that dropping the conference's automatic bid "is not official yet" but added "I think it's pretty much assured."

The formula devised by the NCAA's executive committee is based on the performance of the automatic berth leagues during the past five post-season tournaments. The OVC, of which Murray State is a member, has won only one game while losing five during the period, ranking the conference 19th on the list of 23 major conferences.

Vanatta said the formula was adopted by the NCAA executive committee two years ago and that the OVC had attempted to prolong its implementation or to extend the period to a record over the past 10 years. Both those attempts failed.

"If we have lost it (the automatic bid) the only recourse next year would be an at-large berth," Vanatta said from his home in Nashville.

The loss of the tournament bid could also mean some changes in the league's post-season tournament.

Wayne Duke, commissioner of the Big Ten and chairman of the NCAA's Division I basketball tournament, was quoted in this morning's Louisville Courier-Journal as saying:

"The only way for a league to conduct a post-season tournament and have it count as only one game against the maximum of 27 is for that tourney to designate the league's representative in the NCAA tournament."

Vanatta said the OVC will meet in the very near future to decide what action to take on its post-season tournament.

About the only hope for the OVC to retain its automatic berth would have been for the league's representative this year to have won at least two games, Vanatta said. Western Kentucky upset Syracuse in the first round of the tournament but the loss to Michigan State Thursday night apparently shut the door on the OVC, Vanatta indicated.

How, Duke was asked by the Courier-Journal reporter, will a league like the OVC ever get a chance to improve its tourney record?

"By at-large bids," he was quoted as saying. "But it is going to be very difficult."

Does that mean the 16 conferences in next year's field will be in the tourney all the time?

"It looks that way," Duke said.

Vanatta said that should an OVC team be able to land an at-large berth it would have a chance of regaining the automatic bid. He said the records of the conferences participating in the tournament will be refigured each season based on the previous five years.

"With an at-large berth we can work on our percentage," Vanatta said.

Democratic Party Okays Outside Audit Of Funds

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Democratic Party's Central Executive Committee, at the suggestion of the party's chairman, has approved an outside audit of the party's finances for the past two years.

The committee, meeting Friday for the first time in eight months, also approved a plan to put receipts from the state income tax checkoff system, which netted the Democrats $128,000 last year, in a separate bank account, which would not be used to finance candidates.

Both steps were designed to respond to criticism in different fields.

Party Chairman Howard "Sunny" Hunt, in making his surprise motion for an audit, spoke of "some rumblings about expenditures."

The reference apparently was to Congressman Carroll Hubbard of Mayfield, who has written a series of "Dear Sonny" letters criticizing certain expenses Hunt has authorized.

The congressman was not due in Frankfort until later in the day for a scheduled fundraising dinner following the executive committee meeting, and hence, no confrontation occurred.

But there were some sharp questions by committee members on the purported lack of information given them on expenditures.

This resulted in an agreement by Hunt to notify the committee of any "reasonable" expenses that might be incurred.

Hubbard is a possible candidate for governor next year against state Commerce Commissioner Terry McBrayer, who is supported by Gov. Julian Carroll and Hunt.

State Auditor George Atkins, another potential anti-administration candidate, had questioned a $15,000 expenditure for a professional poll on the views of Democrats. He and other critics said it seemed more in the nature of a "feeler" operation on next spring's Democratic gubernatorial primary.

The second step by the committee — the separation of the checkoff funds — also was a response to earlier criticism by Atkins.

The auditor was pushing for a bill which would block use of such money for any candidates. There is no such restriction under the law that allows both parties to collect taxpayer money.

Tension Surfaces Among Solons As Assembly Enters Final Day

By T.G. MOORE

Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — With the Kentucky Legislature entering the final day of the 1978 session today, tension is surfacing among lawmakers as they watch significant legislation either perish or survive.

The last two days of the session are ostensibly reserved in both houses for concurrence in amendments added in the other chamber. But a barrage of bills remain on the Senate and House calendars and they can be voted on by a suspension of the rules.

This leaves little time for thorough study of amendments that have been added by the other chamber. The situation prompted some complaints among House members Friday as Senate amendments to House-passed bills came up for concurrence votes.

During voting on a moped bill, which was amended in the Senate to delete registration requirements for the motorized bicycles, several members complained that House Majority Leader Bobby Richardson, D-Glasgow, was not adequately explaining that and other Senate amendments.

"I suggest everybody vote no until they slow down and give us a chance to look at these amendments," said Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, chairman of the Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

"I'm doing the best I can," Richardson replied. "They're not my bills. If you don't want to concur, it suits me."

If either chamber refuses to concur in an amendment, the measure is returned to the chamber that added the amendment and is asked to recede. If that body does not recede the amendment, the issue is put before a House-

Senate conference committee to work out differences.

But as Rep. Hank Hancock, D-Frankfort, observed, that process could spell death for important legislation with an unwanted rider.

Rep. Gross Lindsay, D-Henderson, complained at one point Friday that Speaker William Kenton's ruling that Senate amendments must be voted on as a block unfairly handicapped potentially good amendments if they were considered in the same vote with a objectionable amendment.

Lindsay asked Kenton, D-Lexington, if that were also the practice in the upper chamber, but Kenton said he did not know. The House defeated 59-11 a motion by Lindsay to recess Kenton reported on the senate's procedure.

Representatives later were informed that the Senate, too, votes on amendments collectively.

Complicated Workman's Comp Issue Expected To Be Decided

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The complicated issue of how to control workmen's compensation insurance premiums while providing adequate benefits to workers injured on the job was to be resolved today in a House-Senate conference committee.

As expected, intense lobbying and the threat of a veto by Gov. Julian Carroll resulted Friday in the rejection by the Kentucky House of Senate amendments limiting benefits in an effort to reduce premiums.

The House voted 48-38 in favor of a motion by Majority Floor Leader Bobby Richardson, D-Glasgow, not to concur with the amendments. The disputed bill now goes to a conference committee of both houses.

The Senate amendments, approved last Friday to an administration workmen's compensation bill, would limit the length of time benefits are paid to partially permanently disabled workers injured on the job to 10 years.

Such workers are now paid workmen's compensation benefits for life, even if they later return to work.

Opponents of the amendment charged it violated a compromise agreement between labor, industry and the governor.

Richardson told the House he had been authorized by Carroll to inform them he would veto the bill in its amended form "before he goes to church on Sunday."

Richardson said that would invalidate the original bill worked out during the interim and workmen's compensation insurance rates "will go out the ceiling."

Backers of the Senate amendment said they are designed to reduce workmen's compensation insurance rates.

Rep. Herbie Deskins, D-Pikeville, claimed the original bill would have lowered workmen's compensation rates 35 percent and the amendments would discriminate against the worker who loses a leg or arm and cannot return to full working ability.

However, Rep. Dolly McNutt, D-Paducah, said the amendments "are fair and are needed to return Kentucky to a competitive status in the search for much needed industry."

Sen. William L. Sullivan, D-Henderson, leader of the move to change the law in the Senate, said the limit of benefits would halt the sharp rise in workmen's compensation insurance premiums which he claimed are driving industry from the state and hindering the search for new industry.

Rep. Ed Holloway, R-Louisville, agreed, saying, "I have seen the new plant expansions planned for Kentucky canceled and I have seen industrial prospects pulled away from the state."

Rep. Willard Allen, R-Morgantown, said he had never seen such heavy lobbying and "horse trading." He called on the legislators "to see if the governor has enough backbone to veto this bill."

UCM Relocates In Ordway Hall

The United Campus Ministry, whose facility on North 15th Street, Murray, was recently gutted by fire, has temporarily relocated on the second floor of Ordway Hall on the Murray State University campus.

Staff officers will be housed adjoining the Counseling and Testing Center in Ordway Hall which is located at North 15th and Olive Streets, just one block north of the UCM building. Telephones have been installed in the offices with the UCM's old number, 753-3531.

The Wednesday luncheon programs will resume next Wednesday in the Winslow cafeteria training room. Staff members at the campus ministry include Bill Porter, Fred Morton, Steve Davenport, and Martin Mattingly. UCM secretary is Deanna Wolf.

An AP News Analysis

Carroll And Industry Reps Clash Over Workman's Comp Bill

By SY RAMSEY

Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) Some days ago Gov. Julian Carroll, furious at the Senate's slashing of his workmen's compensation bill, put out word to two representatives of industry that he wanted to see them in his office.

As the story is told, the two entered the office from the front and sat waiting. Carroll came in through a back entrance, stared at them for half a minute and said: "Try me." Then, without another word, the governor went out again the back way.

The anecdote seems to underline what a handwritten letter from the governor also has said — that he will veto any compensation bill which goes beyond the administration version.

The letter was sent this week to Sen. Lowell Hughes, D-Ashland, but copies were distributed by mistake to other legislators.

It is handwritten, which underscores its importance to Carroll, and it reiterates what he already has said — a veto is in the works unless the Associated Industries of Kentucky and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce back down from their insistence on changes that they feel would stem the continually rising premiums for which they pay in full for protection of work-related injuries.

In the final two days of the session, the juggling is occurring on two measures — House Bills 41 and 358.

The administration is trying to keep the legislation within previously set bounds.

If that happens, certain case law would be repealed which almost certainly will lead to future workmen's compensation increases. Also, the administration will pump another $8 million into a fund which would help lower employer premiums.

But industry has gone for broke in trying to reduce benefits for the disabled, among other amendments, with the goal of cutting premiums further.

That has precipitated the clash with Carroll. The Aik and chamber are testing the governor's intent to veto, knowing full well that in either event the problem would embarrass state Commerce Commissioner Terry McBrayer, the governor's favorite to succeed him in 1979.

McBrayer would take the adverse fallout from any veto or failure to veto, drawing anger from industry or labor whichever occurs.

Carroll's letter specified the precise conditions under which he would veto any measure and what he would accept.

Meantime, the furious lobbying by labor and business interests continues into the final hours with the odds on the administration.

"The governor has shown us he can get more than 50 House votes on anything overnight," one lobbyist said Friday. "So I guess he'll get his way on workmen's compensation."

The crisis has been caused by soaring premium rates — more than 1,000 percent in the past eight years.

Industry contends drastic measures, including some restrictions on benefits, are necessary to cope with a trend it warns will drive businesses from Kentucky.

But labor insists that compared with other states, Kentucky workers do not receive adequate benefits even with the sky high premium costs.

Hair Dyes And Cancer

Q: Mrs. G. D. says that she is approaching 50 years of age and has been dyeing her hair for several years. Recent news stories have made her worry whether such dyeing may increase her chances of having some form of cancer.

A: The question of whether hair dyes contribute to the increase in instances of cancer has been under study for years, and the answer remains uncertain at this time.

The National Cancer Institute recently announced that, according to the results of "very preliminary" tests on laboratory animals, five chemicals, not used in all hair dyes but in some, are carcinogenic. Additional studies will be made. If they are positive, they will be turned over to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) which could propose warning labels to make consumers aware of possible dangers.

The FDA is presently looking at the evidence on a sixth chemical (4-methoxy-m-phenyldiamine) to see whether a warning label should be required for its possible carcinogenic effects, according to a report in "The Wall Street Journal."

The cosmetic industry questions the results of these animal studies and contends that "there are serious flaws" in these experiments. The amounts of chemicals used in animal testing are said to be many times greater than the amount to which a person is exposed in the use of hair dyes. Also, the skin is a barrier and does not permit any significant degree of absorption, according to industry spokesmen.

The Cosmetic, Toiletry and Fragrance Association (CTFA), a cosmetics industry trade group, also questions "massive feeding tests of the chemicals as a definitive indicator of human risk."

Also, the CTFA believes that epidemiological data are needed to show a relationship between hair dyes and cancer. The association believes that the millions of users show no measured difference in the instances of cancer above nonusers.

In other words, the preliminary evidence is suggestive, but not conclusive, that any relationship exists between the use of hair dyes and cancer. More research and observation are needed.

If you have to walk during hours of darkness, make sure that drivers can see you.

Visual capability is greatly reduced at night. When it's particularly dark outside an automobile may be delineated only by its headlights, especially if moving at a fast speed.

Anyone who must walk at night should wear white or light clothing, carry a flashlight or lantern, or perhaps utilize retro-reflective material. Drivers should reduce their speed and be alert for any moving object along the road.

Complaint From A 'Clergyperson'

DEAR ABBY: I'm ashamed of you. I thought you were a liberated woman, but you are still clinging to sexist stereotypes.

I refer to a recent column in which you advised a love-starved wife to talk to her clergyMAN.

In case you haven't heard, Abby, we now have clergyWOMEN. Please update your vocabulary.

I recently received a letter from my bishop in which I was addressed, "Dear Brother Pastor." So even bishops lapse. However, I will forgive you if in the future you say, "Talk to your clergyPERSON." Otherwise, I shall send the next clergyMAN reference I see in your column to MS. Magazine.

I am a United Methodist minister and a full member of the Iowa Conference of the United Methodist Church. As an Iowa native, you must have grown up around Methodists.

Sign me...

LADY PREACHER: ARLINGTON, IOWA

DEAR LADY: Not only did I grow up around Methodists, I attended a fine Methodist College in Sioux City, Iowa—Morningside.

Report me to MS. Magazine if you wish, but I'm not ready for "clergyPERSON" yet.

Mea culpa, mea maxima culpa. (I learned that when I took CATHOLIC instruction in Eau Claire, Wisc.)

DEAR ABBY: You suggest that when personal belongings and articles of clothing keep disappearing from patients in a nursing home, one should "demand an investigation!"

Abby, senile patients give clothing to other patients and leave articles in lounges, dining rooms and other patients' rooms. Some even throw their belongings in the wastebaskets!

And guess what! Many senile residents have been known to send their bed linen and clothing home with senile spouses, relatives and visiting friends.

Is the elderly patient happy, well-cared for, clean and given kind attention? These are the things to look for in a nursing home.

Let's praise the folks who work in these homes and do their best in a situation where the general public is eager to think the worst and criticize.

ON THE POSITIVE SIDE

DEAR ON: It takes a special kind of loving, caring person to work in a nursing home. For another "positive" view, read on:

DEAR ABBY: Here is some help for HELPLESS, whose partially senile mother is in a nursing home. Her mother's clothes keep disappearing, and HELPLESS says, "Either the patients or the help are stealing."

If HELPLESS's mother becomes completely senile: as my mother is now, she will find her mother's closet starting to fill with strange items as her own disappear.

She and the other senile patients in nursing homes are no longer able to recognize anything that belongs to them—including their own rooms.

Now I realize that the staff cannot possibly keep everyone's belongings straight, short of hourly inspections. Last week one nurse was trying desperately to locate the owner of a set of dentures left under a potted palm!

SON IN ENGLEWOOD, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: You wrote: "In teaching children to respect others, EXAMPLE is the best teacher."

True. And that caused me to recall George Bernard Shaw's famous quip: "If you must hold yourself up to your children as an object lesson, hold yourself up to a WARNING—and not as an EXAMPLE."

Family Notes and Inquiries

For some time I have been promising to use one column to catch up on inquiries which have been sent to me, along with information about families in this area. This week I am going to print some comments from readers, along with requests for information which readers may be able to help with.

First of all, I received an interesting letter from a former Murray resident dealing with several cemeteries which no longer exist. The first was the Wells cemetery, located on what was called Pool Hill, which evidently is the site directly behind the Murray-Calloway County hospital. Some time ago, a reader had written to ask if I knew what had become of this cemetery and if I knew who had been buried there.

According to my source, the cemetery, which was in the grove of Pine Trees on what is now Bob Miller's property, had been destroyed some time ago. Supposedly the following persons were buried there: members of the Claiborn Wells family, Robert P. Pool, some Fraziers, and Mary Martin Bailey, first wife of Henry R. Bailey and daughter of Rufus and Harriett Williams Martin. This last burial was said to have taken place in the late 1890's.

With regard to the Scherfield cemetery, in the northeast corner of the county, which also contains no stones, although the graves are visible, the following people were buried there: Katherine and David Scherfield, and Jane Scherfield Fulton, wife of William Fulton, who is buried in the old Jones cemetery.

There is supposed to be a Dr. Nuckolls buried in a single grave in the vicinity of Wadesboro. If anyone can locate this stone, I would appreciate knowing how to find it. It is supposedly near the Wadesboro cemetery, but not in it. Dr. Nuckolls was a physician in the 1840's.

Another correspondent is interested in tracing the family of Joseph Lane and Nancy Elizabeth Futrell (she was a Thomas). They owned the old Brick Inn at Canton at one time, probably about the turn of the century. I believe that Joseph Lane was the son of Solomon Futrell, but can find no trace of their marriage or of Nancy's family. On her gravestone in East End Cemetery at Cadiz, she is called Lizzie, so this may be of some help.

Another reader from Murray is trying to trace the history of Hico, Kentucky. When he remembered the community, as a youth, it was located at the edge of the Tennessee River, some thirty years ago. But he does remember both grandfathers — Ellis and Tucker — being buried in a large cemetery, which could mean the Palestine cemetery. Can anyone help him out?

I am always willing to help readers trace lost family members or put them in touch with others who can help. Just drop a line in care of the Ledger and Times and I will do the best I can. And if anyone knows any more about the cemeteries discussed in this column, especially dates, I would be grateful to receive these. There is another cemetery, now demolished, which I am interested in learning about, called the Grogan cemetery, near the Chestnut Oak firetower; if anyone has information about it, please let me know.

Another writer from Houston is interested in finding out about her great-grandmother Sarah McDaniel — she later married James Miles in 1833 and moved to Texas in 1866. This line is tied in with the Hodge family of Trigg County.

Also, if anyone has any information about Ira Fox, once sheriff of Calloway County, I would be interested in it. Mrs. Tom Williams wrote that his parents are buried in unmarked graves on the Falwell property near Friendship church. Does anyone have their names and the dates of their birth and death?

I also have a copy of the 1935 Bulletin put out by the Little River Baptist Association, held at Boyd's Hill Baptist Church, Trigg County. If anyone who had family from there would like this booklet, I will leave it at the Ledger & Times Office and it will be given to the first one who comes for it.

"Hansel and Gretel" to be presented by the first six grades of New Concord High School on March 19 are James Edd Farris, Lucy Ann Forrest, Billy Roberts, Joanna Allbritten, Beverly Bonner, Billy Allbritten, and Kay Farrell.

Mary Ellis, Yvonne Paschall, Doris Adams, Pat Jones, Tom Cunningham, Kathryn Garland, Charles Magness, Wanda Crouse, Bobbie Salmon, Zane Cunningham, and R. L. Usrey are members of the cast of the freshman class play, "The Funny Brats," to be presented at Kirksey High School on March 26.

Births reported include a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Starks on March 14.

T. C. Arnett, Garland Murphy, Carmon Parks, Kelly Rogers, Ruth Richmond, LaNelle Siress, Vernon Trevathan and Clough Venable are students from Calloway County enrolled this semester at the University of Kentucky, Lexington.

George M. Baker, in charge of land acquisition office of the Tennessee Valley Authority located here, and Dr. James H. Richmond, president of Murray State College, spoke on the advantages to the area through the construction of Gilbertsville Dam at the meeting of the Murray Rotary Club.

Sharpe beat Heath for the championship of the First Regional High School Basketball Tournament here and will go to the state tournament at Lexington.

Work is progressing rapidly on Murray's new hotel which is to be completed by July 1.

Deaths reported this week include Mrs. Clint Warren, age 16, and James M. Thornton, age 76.

Judge T. R. Jones presided at the meeting of the Calloway County Fiscal Court. Road graders will begin grading county roads on April 30.

Murray Chief of Police J. F. Hays and the Murray City Council has an ad this week asking all chicken owners not to let them run at-large on any property other than their own.

The Wickliffe boys and the Bardwell girls won the Regional Basketball Tournaments here and will go to Lexington for the state tournaments. T. Sled and Walter Woods were tournament scorers.

Needle Woman Fabrics Store Opens In Central Center

The Needlewoman Fabrics Store is having its Grand Opening this week at the Central Center Shopping Center.

The new store will carry a complete inventory of home sewing needs at moderate prices and will be open 9-8 Mon. through Sat. and 1-5 on Sun.

"We're very excited about the opening," said the store manager, Georgine Wells, "because our convenient location and complete selection will offer the customer one-stop shopping in an atmosphere of friendly assistance."

Colorful buttons, trims, zippers and thread line the walls of the new store giving a spectrum of hues to match the informally grouped fabrics which have been draped so the customers can easily feel the texture of the materials.

"We carry three lines of patterns, and when the new monthly pattern books arrive, we'll make the past month's books available to the neighborhood schools' sewing classes," said Mrs. Wells.

The constantly changing world of fashion sewing requires fabric selections to span all seasons and climates. Many who sew their wardrobes at home want (fall fabrics to sew with during the (summer) days, and the new Needlewoman Fabrics store reflects this need with their variety of fabrics and their newest of sewing aids to make sewing better and faster.

"We're kind of a 'super market' for sewing," says Mrs. Wells. "Whether one wishes to dress in sportswear, formal wear, every day dresses, better dresses, or, of couse, nightwear, all the makings are waiting. We've Crewel embroidery kits, scissors and every conceivable sewing accessory."

Whether it's a young mother shopping for soft flannels for sleepwear or new grandmothers buying everything in sight to stitch up for their grandchildren, the Needlewoman store is a cozy setting for the manager and her trained sales associates to trade sewing shortcuts and tricks with their customers.

The magic of a "Grand Opening" is not by happenstance. Years of experience in customer-convenience merchandising; up-to-the-minute fashion awareness; superior buying contacts with mills and distributors; seasoned knowledge of customer comfort for displays and store traffic lay-out; these are but a few of the behind-the-scenes expertise necessary for a smooth "Grand Opening" and the promotional creativity needed to carry home sewing excitement through future years.

Mrs. Wells states, "I think customers will appreciate being able to charge their purchases on their MasterCard and Visa credit cards, as well as our pretty fabrics at pleasant prices.

"My sales associates all sew and they are courteous women who enjoy meeting the public and sharing their enthusiasm for home sewing."

"We've Needlewoman Fabrics Stores in 14 states; that naturally gives us buying contacts with all the big mills, which gives us the best fabric selection and best possible prices!"

Integon Insurance Moves Offices

The Murray offices of Integon and King Insurance have recently moved from 905 Sycamore to 901 Sycamore. According to David King, regional representative for Integon Insurance, the larger facilities at the new location will provide many additional services for clients. Conference rooms, convention space, and a larger parking area are now available. The expanded offices will also permit the employment of additional personnel by the Agency.

The new office complex will be a regional office for Integon and will serve as a training center for new agents. This training will be coordinated with the Cooperative and Experiential education program at Murray State University. The offices will also be used as a Chartered Life Underwriter School for all agents in portions of Western Kentucky.

David King has been in business as an insurance agent since August 15, 1973. His first office was in the building he presently occupies. In May, 1975, expansion of the business was necessary and Mr. King's offices were moved to 905 Sycamore.

Mr. King has now returned to his original building and says it is great to be back home. He plans to be in his present location for a long time to come.

Laurel County Faces Tough Hurdle In Girls Tournament

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer
RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Laurel County has perhaps the toughest hurdle in its race for a second straight Kentucky girls' high school basketball title, which will be decided here in two rounds today.

The Cardinals, 27-3, exploded past Paris in the fourth quarter Friday for a 66-56 victory in a rematch from last year's championship game.

Laurel County now faces Louisville Assumption, 22-11, which ended quarterfinal play with a 59-42 rout of Covington Notre Dame.

Barren County, 22-4, takes on Breathitt County, 30-1, in today's first semifinal game. The winners meet in an 8 p.m. championship game.

Fans who anticipated a head-to-head offensive battle between Laurel County's Sharon Garland and Paris' Beth Wilkerson weren't disappointed.

The tall, talented juniors ripped the nets from start to finish, with Garland winning the scoring battle, 28-24, and Wilkerson holding a 13-4 rebounding edge.

But the Cardinals are not a one-girl team. Garland was nearly smothered in the second half, often being double- and triple-teamed by the Lady Hounds' sagging zone defense, but teammate Bonnie Sizemore connected on four quick set shots that Paris' zone made available.

Sizemore finished with 10 points. Judy Henry scored 18 for Paris, which closed its season 18-7.

Assumption breezed past the Pandas with a steady offense, outscoring Notre Dame in every quarter. Marsha Thomas scored all her 10 points in the first half when the Rockets built a 28-18 lead. Laurie Mazzoni topped Assumption with 14 points and Mary Heim added 11. Nancy Berger, with 16 points, was the only Panda in double figures.

Barren County's front line of Belinda Bradley, Terri Wilkinson and Dana Taylor used the lob pass nearly to perfection against Owensboro's zone defense enroute to a 51-37 victory.

"I take the blame for the loss," said Red Devil Coach Grant Talbott. "I coached a bad ballgame, but we weren't scoring off the press like we usually do. I'm very upset with myself because I thought this was really the year for us."

"If they had scored off the press in the first half, I might have been the loser," said Barren County Coach Bob Steenbergen. "We just relaxed when we got the big lead (40-19 in the third quarter) and it broke our concentration."

Breathitt County's Melanie Gross earned a place among the tournament's unlikely heroines when she ripped Ashland for 23 points. In a game earlier this season, the lithe guard scored just two. The Bobcats' Irene Moore was held to 16 points, but Ashland Coach Linda Meyers admitted she was wrong in thinking that would be enough.

"We did everything we wanted to do," Meyers said. "We knew we had to shut off Moore. Her passing is everything for them. But we sure didn't expect that little No. 20 (Gross) to be so hot outside. She really put it in there."

Kentucky To Square Off Against Michigan

By ANDY LIPPMAN

AP Sports Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Events moved at an accelerated pace this season for Michigan State basketball Coach Judd Heathcote.

In his second season as coach of the Spartans, Heathcote finds himself coaching the 4th-ranked team in the country. And they're in today's finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Midwest Regional basketball tournament against top-ranked Kentucky.

The team's fortunes have come a long way from last year when it was 10-17 and a sixth place finish in the Big Ten.

"I was around when the basketball program was rebuilt at Washington State and then when it was rebuilt at Montana," Heathcote said. "I felt confident we could do the same here, but it all happened much quicker than I ever dreamed it would."

Heathcote came to Lansing, Mich. at a time when he admits the dominate trait of the local fans was apathy.

"I knew I wasn't slipping into another UCLA when I came here," Heathcote said.

This year's team attracted sellout crowds for each of 13 home games and set a record home total of 128,518 as the Spartans advanced to the NCAA tournament for the first time since 1959.

"I've never seen crowds so enraptured as they are now at Lansing," Heathcote said.

Heathcote admits he's not the reason for the current fever. The fans' attention has been riveted to two hometown heroes, freshman Earvin Johnson and Jay Vincent.

"We've been thrilled with the change," said Heathcote, who said his teams played last year before crowds of 4,000-5,000 people. "The enthusiasm has penetrated the student body and the entire community."

That enthusiasm has been heightened by the success of Johnson and Vincent and their Spartan teammates.

Johnson was voted to the All-Big Ten and All America squads and is considered by his coach to be the catalyst who makes the Spartans go.

"He's made them an exciting, unusual kind of ball club and I think you have to go back to the Pete Maravich teams of Louisiana State to find one like it," said Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall.

Hall is hoping his Kentucky team will continue to display the aggressiveness they showed Thursday night while crushing Miami.

"We have to play with aggressiveness to be a good ball club," the Kentucky coach said.

Hall concluded his team was finally ready to bear down in search of Kentucky's first NCAA basketball title since 1958.

"We played with an emotion that has been missing in the latter part of the season," Hall said of Thursday's effort.

"This is a senior ball club that knows they will not be this way again and they responded to this."

More People Out Than In At Davis Cup Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It was a Davis Cup to be remembered.

There were more people outside the arena than inside and it appeared that there was a cop for every six people on hand.

There was a grim starkness about the modern 8,500 empty seats in the modern Vanderbilt University gymnasium where the matches were played. The crowd was put at 1,132. It looked much smaller.

The combatants — the American and South African tennis teams playing in a North American Zone match — were brought to the arena like gladiators out of another age.

Plainclothes police wearing bullet-proof vests and guns escorted the players from their hotel, some 10 miles away, to the scene of the matches, in the heart of this country music capital.

They were sneaked into a closely guarded basement door, well removed from hundreds of sign-waving, chanting, yelling demonstrators protesting the racial segregation policies of South Africa.

"By the time we got to the locker room I was ready to go home," said Vitas Gerulaitis, who scored one of America's two singles victories. Harold Solomon scored the other.

The sponsors dispensed with the usual playing of national anthems prior to the matches — a ritual that has been commonplace in Davis Cup matches for generations. "It was decided that this might be too inflammatory," said Slew Hester, president of the U.S. Tennis Association.

The crowd was one of the smallest ever to see a Davis Cup match anywhere in the world and was a disappointment to Vanderbilt, which had hoped to fill the stands for all three sessions.

The crowd obviously was frightened away by advance warning of planned demonstrations by a large number of various groups, including the NAACP and the militant ACCSS (American Coordinating Committee for Equality in Sports and Society), headed by Richard E. Lapchick, a political science teacher at Virginia Wesleyan University in Norfolk, Va. and son of basketball immortal Joe Lapchick.

Center Injured

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Center Orest Kindrachuk had his sprained right ankle put in a cast Friday and will be out of action at least through Monday, the Philadelphia Flyers said.

A spokesman for the National Hockey League team said Kindrachuk also reinjured his right knee in the same play Thursday night at Buffalo in a 3-1 loss to the Sabres. The knee will be examined Monday, the spokesman said.

Kuhaulua Wins

TOKYO (AP) — Top-ranking maegashira Jesse Kuhaulua, of Takamiyama, of Hawaii won his third match against four losses over a lower ranking wrestler today, the seventh day of the 15-day Spring Grand Sumo tournament.

The 404-pound Jesse marched 282-pound No. 6 maegashira Oshio out of the circle before 7,000 spectators at Osaka Prefectural Gymnasium in the western Japanese city. The defeat was Oshio's third in seven matches.

WaKayashima, or Reid Asato, also of Hawaii, suffered his third setback against one victory, losing to Matsunoshima in a sandanme bout.

Corzine's 46 Stops Cardinals

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Dave Corzine won one for DePaul ... and lost one for George Mikan.

Playing the best basketball of his career, the gifted DePaul center erased the great Mikan's career scoring record with a thunderous 46-point performance Friday night in the Midwest Regionals of the NCAA playoffs.

Fast becoming a sentimental cause around the country, Ray Meyer's stylish Midwesterners defeated Louisville 90-89 in double overtime on the strength of Corzine's production and moved into Sunday's Midwest finals against Notre Dame.

The Irish advanced to the Midwest showdown game at Lawrence, Kan., with a 69-56 decision over Utah.

Duke and Villanova advanced to the East Regional finals, also on Sunday, with victories Friday night. Duke whipped Penn 84-80 and Villanova edged Indiana 61-60 in the East semifinals at Providence, R.I.

The NCAA playoffs continued today with finals in the Midwest Regionals pairing Kentucky against Michigan State and in the West matching Arkansas with Cal State-Fullerton.

Corzine's spectacular show was clearly the high point of Friday night's action. He capped his performance by scoring the winning basket with less than 20 seconds left in the second overtime period.

The 6-foot-11, 250-pounder said it was his best offensive performance ever and was "honored" to break the legendary Mikan's career record of 1,870 points.

Mikan, of course, was recognized as one of the sport's first truly fine big men. He played in the 1940s under the venerable Meyer, providing DePaul with some of its most significant basketball accomplishments.

Freshman Kelly Tripucka keyed an 11-0 run in the final minute as Notre Dame caught fire at the end to beat Utah. The Irish blew a five-point lead early in the second half and trailed the Utes 50-49 when Tripucka sank a baseline jumper to give Notre Dame the lead back at 51-50.

Utah's Earl Williams drove in for a layup at 6:01, but the Utes then hit a fatal dry spell, going scoreless until Greg Dean hit a pair of free throws at 1:32.

Eugene Banks and Jim Spanarkel scored 21 points apiece to lead Duke over Penn. The Quakers threatened to upset Duke by taking a nine-point lead, 66-58, with about eight minutes remaining in the game.

But Banks, a 6-7 freshman forward, and Spanarkel, a 6-5 guard, hit on a variety of short jumpers and the Blue Devils' defense held Penn to one basket in nearly six minutes.

Rory Sparrow made a twisting, turn-around layup with 13 seconds left to give Villanova its victory over Indiana. The 6-2 Sparrow, who had 12 points for the game, scored the gamewinner after Villanova's defense slowed the Hoosier running game to a walk.

How to save over 7000 gallons of hot water each year

If you're an average homemaker washing about 34 loads of clothes each month, you can save over 7,000 gallons of hot water each year and dollars on each month's electric bill. Simply switch from hot water to warm water for the wash cycle and from warm water to cold for the rinse cycle.

If you want to go a step further, try one of the cold water detergents. You may want to switch entirely to cold water for some loads.

For extra savings, wash only full loads. (but not packed), or be sure to adjust the water level to the size load you're washing.

See us for more information on using hot water efficiently.

Commission Approves Regulations

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky's bow hunters will have 11 extra days of deer hunting this fall, may use crossbows for a two-week period, and must check all deer through an official check station according to regulations approved by the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission at its quarterly meeting yesterday.

The archery deer season will open Oct. 1, 1978 and run through Nov. 8 with the second phase of the season opening Nov. 18 and continuing through Nov. 20. The season will reopen on Dec. 9 and run through Dec. 31, for a total of 75 days of hunting.

Crossbows may be used in all open counties from Oct. 1 through Oct. 14 only. Crossbows must have a minimum pull of 80 pounds.

The check station procedure will be similar to the one required of gun hunters for the past two seasons. Its purpose is to allow biologists to get a quick and accurate count of the total number of deer taken. A list of check stations will be available in late summer, before the season opens.

Fifteen counties will be closed to both gun and bow hunting: Clark, Clay, Estill, Floyd, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Leslie, Magoffin, Martin, Owsley, Perry, Powell and Wolfe. In addition, the following wildlife management areas are closed to deer hunting: Yellowbank, Beaver Creek, Dewey Lake, Grayson Lake, Pine Mountain, Redbird, Robinson Forest and Cane Creek.

Other archery regulations remain essentially the same as in recent years, according to Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold L. Mitchell, who added that the extra days of hunting are not expected to add significantly to the total deer harvest.

Bow hunters may take either sex deer in all open counties, but specially managed wildlife areas may have differing regulations to be announced in the future, Mitchell said.

In other action, the fish and wildlife commission approved a black bass study offering cash rewards from $1 to $1,000. Over 4,000 bass in various lakes, streams and a portion of the Ohio River will be tagged, with each tag carrying a monetary value assigned by random selection. When an angler catches a tagged bass, he returns the numbered tag and will be notified of the cash value of the tag, which ranges from $1 to $1,000.

The purpose of the cash awards is to encourage anglers to return the tags. "Without the cash reward as an incentive, tag returns would not reflect an accurate percentage of legal sized bass harvested," according to Fisheries Director Charlie Bowers, who adds that an accurate harvest estimate is necessary to properly evaluate the impact of the new 12-inch size limit.

Additional information about the project will be released as final details are worked out, Bowers says.

Scout Troop 13 participated in an Outdoor Enrichment Series Program on Weather recently. The group encountered zero degree weather and a 6 inch snowfall during their stay at the Camp Energy Group Camp at Land Between The Lakes, Golden Pond, Kentucky. to be just about as scared the other way; that they won't recognize us as "country" folks. It's a funny world for a fact.

Maybe four wheel drive is the difference between a bowl of cereal and two eggs scrambled with ham. At five a. m. in the morning.

But before you start calling three fourths of us ignorant, be advised I never met a four wheel drive owner who doesn't use his rig. And strangely enough, if something can be justified to one's self, then it's justifiable for most folks.

A little more winter like this one, and we're going to have roads like they had when mules were popular. It's something to think about.

Have a nice week. Hope for sunshine. And HAPPY FOUR WHEELING.

Woodchucks Collected During Hunt At Land Between The Lakes

Golden Pond, KY — Woodchucks harvested from Land Between The Lakes will be collected Saturday and Sunday, March 11 and 12, 1978. The woodchuck hunting season opened with a slow start according to wildlife officials. It continues through March 19.

The University of Tennessee is soliciting the animals for research. Other collection dates will be set if the results of the first two days are poor.

Hunting will be permitted sunrise to sunset, and the daily bag and possession limit in both the Tennessee and Kentucky portions of Land Between The Lakes is 10 animals.

Hunters are not required to check in or out, but are asked to bring any unwanted woodchucks to one of the three information stations. All other animals harvested must be removed from Land Between The Lakes.

All hunters must have a valid Kentucky or Tennessee small game hunting license and a Land Between The Lakes woodchuck permit. Tennessee also requires a state archery license for bowhunters. Land Between The Lakes permits may be obtained free of charge by presenting a valid state hunting license at any of the information-check stations in Land Between The Lakes, or at Center Station in the Environmental Education Center.

Fully automatic rifles, crossbows, sidearms, shotguns, and firearms using rimfire ammunition are prohibited. Also, .22 magnum caliber rifles are prohibited in the Kentucky portion, but are legal in the Tennessee portion.

Legal firearms in both states are centerfire rifles of .17 caliber or larger; muzzleloading rifles of .36 caliber or larger; and longbows and compound bows according to state regulations.

The Kentucky portion of Land Between The Lakes is open for hunting from the state-line to Barkley Canal, excluding public use areas, safety zones, the Environmental Education Center, and other posted areas.

The Tennessee portion of Land Between The Lakes is open excluding the Bear Creek Waterfowl Management unit.

Hunters should note that a 1/4-mile zone bordering The Trace in both Kentucky and Tennessee, Highway 68, Camp Energy and Shaw Branch roads, and all roads bounding the Environmental Education Center are also closed to hunting.

Hunt compartments 8 and 11 and the Off-Road Vehicle Area are open to bowhunting only.

All hunters should wear a cap or hat of solid blaze or hunter orange. Hunters should be at least 25 feet from their vehicles or road rights of way while hunting.

For additional information contact TVA, Land Between The Lakes, Golden Pond, KY 42231, telephone (507) 924-5602.

Kentucky 1978 Deer Season Set

Frankfort, Ky. — A gun deer season which wildlife officials describe as "biologically sound and necessarily complicated," was passed yesterday by the state Fish and Wildlife Commission.

Basically, the 1978 gun deer hunting season will be for bucks only, with at least one forked antler, and will be split into two sections — November 11 through November 13 and December 2 through December 4 but that "basic" season will apply only to 74 of Kentucky's 120 counties.

Four counties — Ballard, McCracken, Livingston and Crittenden — will be open for either sex deer December 2 with bucks only hunting the other five days of the gun season. Edmonson County will be open for either sex deer Nov. 11-13 and Dec. 2-4 with bucks only hunting allowed in the remainder of those counties; 24 counties (see list below) will be open only Nov. 11 through November 13 for bucks with at least one forked antler, and 15 counties (see below) will be closed to all deer hunting — both gun and archery. The bag and possession limit of one per year per hunter, whether by gun or bow, remains unchanged.

The 24 counties open only Nov. 11 through November 13 are Kenton, Greenup, Bourbon, Woodford, Fayette, Montgomery, Mercer, Garrard, Lincoln, Madison, Breathitt, Pike, Letcher, Bell, Knox, Laurel, Whitley, Morgan, Rockcastle, Adair, Metcalfe, Jefferson, Hardin and Jessamine. Counties closed to all deer hunting are Estill, Jackson, Owsley, Clay, Powell, Harlan, Leslie, Wolfe, Clark, Johnson, Perry, Knott, Martin, Floyd and Magoffin.

Additionally, the following wildlife management areas are closed to all hunting, including deer hunting: Grayson, Beaver Creek, Robinson Forest, Redbird, Dewey Lake and Cane Creek. The Yellowbank Area closed to deer gun and archery hunting only.

Further details concerning the gun deer hunting seasons, including lists of deer check stations, which will be mandatory again this year, will be available from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in Frankfort as soon as the regulations amendment procedure is completed — usually 60 to 90 days — and literature for distribution can be printed.

Ballard Co. Wildlife Management Area Delays Opening Until April 1

Frankfort, Ky. — The traditional March 15 opening of the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area in Western Kentucky has been delayed until April 1 because of winter damage on the area, Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold L. Mitchell announced today.

The wildlife area, a popular summer recreation spot, has been particularly hard hit by this winter's prolonged cold and persistent snow cover, the area manager. "Right now, the roads are all but impassable, even by four-wheel-drive vehicles," Moynahan says, adding that delaying the opening from the usual March 15 date will allow the unpaved roads time to dry out and give area crews time to spread gravel on the worst spots.

"We have also been unable to do our usual spring cleaning according to Jim Moynahan, because of the weather and there is no way for us to be ready for a March 15 opening this year," Moynahan says.

The Ballard area is closed each year during the winter months to prevent harassment of the large concentrations of waterfowl which congregate on the refuge. All gates and other access points will remain shut until April 1, when the area will open to the public as usual.

National Wildlife Week
MARCH 19-25, 1978

JOIN AND SUPPORT THE
NATIONAL WILDLIFE FEDERATION AND STATE AFFILIATES

National Wildlife Week March 19-25

"Wildlife Needs You"

Another way of stating the theme for National Wildlife Week 1978 might be, "Wildlife Needs Everybody."

It needs the state and federal legislator who understands conservation and environment issues and can work in behalf of necessary laws. It needs the student, who can keep current on such issues and join or form a school environmental club.

It needs the wildlife manager-researcher, who can study such aspects as habitat in order to improve it. It needs the sportsman, often a hunter, who is willing to work for clean streams, wildlife cover, and bird-banding and fish-tagging programs.

It needs the teacher who wants to further the wildlife cause through school channels. It needs the sympathetic concern of every citizen.

In brief, it needs YOU: the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker; the doctor, lawyer, Indian chief; or as our theme poster puts it, the birder, the biker, the camper, the hiker.

The poster pictures a peregrine falcon, one of America's endangered species, and tells about its struggle to survive.

HABITAT HELPING BEGINS AT HOME, IN YOUR BACKYARD

A lot of us can help wildlife more than we might think.

If we have a backyard, we can aid in planning it and planting it in such a way as to increase the amount of food, water, and cover available for wildlife.

Or we can take part in group or club activities to improve wildlife habitat on schoolgrounds, church yards, or a city-owned vacant lot.

For valuable information on planting plans, please write to the National Wildlife Federation and ask for a free copy of "Invite Wildlife to Your Backyard," "A Pool for the Backyard," and "Recycle for the Birds." The address: 1412 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Legal Staff Aids Wildlife

The National Wildlife Federation's legal staff is well aware that wildlife needs it, and can boast of many an appearance in court or at hearings in behalf of wildlife. These include:

—Entering a public utility case in Oregon to protect millions of birds by backing rerouting of a proposed 400-mile power line from the Klamath-Tule basin to an area with fewer birds.

—Contesting construction of a state highway in Louisiana through a coastal marsh valuable to wildlife, with the result that the road can only be built in such a way as not to damage the wetland.

—Preventing building a state road in North Dakota until the state agreed to bar drainage of prairie potholes into the roadside ditches. Drainage could have destroyed the area as a breeding place for thousands of ducks and other waterfowl.

—Blocking construction of a proposed interchange on a federal highway in Mississippi to protect the endangered Mississippi Sandhill Crane.

Zoos Play Important Role in Wildlife Field

Zoos, source of entertainment and education for people the world over, have also had an impact on wildlife.

They are credited, for instance, with saving some animals from extinction. These include the Hawaiian goose, Mongolian wild horse, the European and the American bison, Pere David's 1,800-acre Wild Animal Park of the San Diego, Calif., zoo, where the white deer, and the Nubian ibex.

On the other hand, critics claim that for every animal displayed in a city zoo, about nine others of the same species have died from mishandling or disease arising while in captivity.

Some zoos have branched out in a new direction to stimulate the breeding of captive animals by placing them in large natural areas. Here they can roam in an environment closer to natural conditions than an ordinary zoo can provide. One of these areas is the rhino, slender-horned gazelle, and Formosan Sika deer are among animals which have been able to breed.

Another installation of this kind is the National Zoo's Conservation and Research Center on 3,068 acres in the Virginia countryside 70 miles from Washington, D.C. It is said to be the nation's biggest conservation center for exotic animals.

Bald Eagle Coming Back In Chesapeake Bay Area

The endangered bald eagle — U. S. national symbol — is making a comeback in the Chesapeake Bay region, according to a 1977 survey. Seventy-eight nests contained 71 eaglets.

In 1976, 72 nests produced only 39 eaglets. The 1977 figure equals the record high of 71 eaglets hatched in 35 nests in 1936.

Whooping Crane a Success Story

The whooping crane illustrates how man may rescue a species from extinction.

In the late 1930s, there were only some 14 of the big white birds left in the wild, and a few others in captivity. The total in the wild and in captivity is now estimated at over 100.

Various programs have helped. One involves transplanting "whooper" eggs from Canadian nests to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Laurel, Md., hatching them and raising the young for possible release to the wild or as breeding stock.

Eggs laid by the Patuxent flock and in Canada have been placed in nests of the more plentiful Greater Sandhill cranes at Grays Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho, for hatching in the wild. Establishing a flock at Grays Lake will increase the 'whoopers' chances of survival as a species, because there are now two wild flocks instead of one.

Wildlife Week Now Forty-one

National Wildlife Week March 19-25, 1978, is the forty-first of its kind.

Chaired in both 1977 and 1978 by Robert Redford, this annual observance has seen a long line of distinguished chairpersons, including Walt Disney, Bing Crosby, Arthur Godfrey, Dick Van Dyke, Lorne Greene, and Shirley Temple Black.

Raptor Center at National Wildlife

Raptors (birds of prey) have a new champion: the National Wildlife Federation has established a Raptor Information Center to promote preservation of the bald eagle, golden eagle, and other raptors.

The Center will help them by identifying critical habitat, monitoring raptor populations, encouraging support of necessary research, and serving as an information clearinghouse.

Representatives of the Center banded eaglets during a recent survey of bald eagles in the Chesapeake Bay region. The Center, which plans to use computers extensively in its information storing role, is at work on bibliographies of bald eagles and owls, and on a project for standardizing raptor survey techniques. For a free folder on the Raptor Center, please write: The National Wildlife Federation, Raptor Information Center, 1412 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

REDFORD CHAIRMAN OF 1978 WILDLIFE WEEK

Robert Redford, popular action and environmental activist, will serve as chairman of National Wildlife Week March 19-25, 1978. He also chaired the 1977 observance as well as those in 1971 and 1972. His interest in such issues as natural resource management, strip mining, and nuclear proliferation is well known.

Hunt Denies That He Sought Favors For Coal Mine Owners

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—State Democratic Chairman Howard "Sonny" Hunt has denied that he sought favors from former Natural Resources Secretary Robert Bell on behalf of coal operators seeking mining permits.

Hunt, who spoke Friday with three reporters following a meeting of the Democratic Party's Central Executive Committee, said his main contact with Bell and aides was to ask that the department let operators whose permit applications had taken inordinately long know where they stood.

"Just to tell them what was the delay," Hunt said. "If you all think (Bell) is so great, you ought to go look (at the agency's records)."

Hunt's clear implication was that Bell, who resigned recently after public criticism by Gov. Julian Carroll, was administratively incompetent.

Two unnamed sources were quoted in a story in The Courier-Journal March 5 as saying Hunt pressured Bell concerning new state strip mine regulations. Carroll denied the allegations at that time.

Hunt, the Democratic chief for more than two years, said, "I've told the governor there were problems...that the (Natural Resources) department was bogged down."

Carroll's response, according to Hunt, was that "Bell was doing a good job."

However, the governor took issue publicly with Bell a couple of weeks ago, declaring the secretary had gone beyond federal standards in writing a state strip mining law. Bell subsequently resigned and is said to be waiting for another state post.

Hunt said there was no pressure from him on Bell to do anything about coal permits. He said, "I never asked anyone to do anything wrong."

He said some operators had been waiting up to eight months for word on the status of their applications.

Mike Templeman, assistant to Hunt, said often the complaints were not directly from the small operators but from local politicians who heard of them and then contacted Democratic headquarters here.

There was nothing wrong with inquiries to Bell's department, Hunt said, because "if anything is wrong with that, we're all in trouble."

Hunt acknowledged only that some queries were to "expedite" permits, which presumably meant to speed them.

The Democratic chairman also acknowledged he has been hard for news media to reach, but said that is because he would be in a "no-win situation" if he responded to all criticisms.

"I'll answer to Kentucky Democrats, but not to the press," he said.

Hunt said the news media seem to think there is something sinister about Democratic state headquarters, but that "we run a straight operation."

He said it is a myth that any party chairman is in position to use funds for favorites in a Democratic primary.

"There are too many controls, it's not that easy," he said. "We're accountable for every cent."

Israelis Overrun Six More Strongholds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Israeli forces overran six more guerrilla strongholds and reported killing terrorist commander "Jihad Carlos" in their drive to consolidate a security belt in southern Lebanon.

The Israelis took the guerrilla outpost of Tibnine, in south-central Lebanon, after an air and tank bombardment that left much of the town ablaze Friday, official reports said.

Its fall followed the capture of four nearby Palestinian strongholds and an Israeli commando raid that blew up a guerrilla marine base near Adloun, a fishing village 22 miles north of the Israeli border.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman called the operation an "ambush by a select force," and that Carlos was the regional commander of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Lebanese sources said the commandos landed by helicopter at Adloun and that other commando strikes were made at guerrilla rocket launching bases north and east of Tyre, 12 miles above the frontier.

The sources said the raid at Adloun was preceded by a two-hour barrage from four Israeli gunboats. Fourteen refugees fleeing in two cars were killed in the blitz, guerrillas reported.

Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, addressing the same Tel Aviv news conference as Weizman, said the only real Palestinian resistance was artillery fire from north of the Litani River.

The Litani runs about 18 miles north of Israel's northern border. Israel calls it a "red line" that Syrian peacekeeping forces in Lebanon may not venture below.

Israeli jets have been bombing guerrilla positions north of the Litani since they invaded Wednesday to carve a 6-by 62-mile border security belt to halt terrorist raids like the one that left 35 Israelis dead on the Tel Aviv-Haifa road last Saturday.

Lebanese Red Cross officials said more than 250 Lebanese and Palestinians have been killed and 350 wounded since the invasion started. Israel said 15 of its men were killed—and 57 wounded.
